Read at the meeting of the American Medical Association, Chicago, Ill., October 1, 1918.

Revised manuscript received March 1, 1919.

SUMMARY

The authors have studied the effect of the inhalation of aerolized bacilli on the course of tuberculosis in the guinea pig.

METHODS

The authors have used the method of inhalation of aerolized bacilli as described by Wells and Wells.

The results of the experiments are given in the following tables.

The authors are indebted to Dr. J. H. Wells for his assistance in the experiments.

During the Revolution Elisha Burdick enlisted May 5, 1778 for 9 months, as private in 6th Co., Second Regiment (Col. Philip Van Cortland) N. Y. line, and was discharged Nov. 5, 1778. Subsequently he served in the Fourth Regiment (Col. James Holmes) and the Fifth Regt. (Col. Lewis Dubois) and also in Capt. Walkers Co. Col. Livingstones Regmt, N. Y. troops.

He applied for and was allowed a pension, April 16, 1818 for four years service in the Revolution. He then resided in Kortright, Delaware Co., N. Y. where he settled in 1810.

The Sidney Centre Transcript in announcing the death of Johnathan Burdick, his son, stated that Elisha Burdick served five years in the War of Independence, that he was one of the guards when Major Andre was taken from the old Dutch church to the place of execution and was at the surrender of Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown.

Gideon Burdick was a soldier during the Revolutionary war and was one of the guards over Major Andre at the time of his execution, as stated in the records of the Pension Bureau. He enlisted at Catskill, N. Y. in 1780, as a private in Col. Dubois Reg. of N. Y. Levies and served 3 weeks. From July 25, 1780, he served 3 months as private in Capt. Jacob Wrights 6th Co., of Col. Philip Van Cortlands Second Regiment, N. Y. Line, and was discharged Oct. 25, 1780. He then enlisted in Capt. Daniel Delavans Co. Col. Wm. Malcolm's Regiment of N. Y. Levies. From April 1781 to Jan. 1, 1782 he served in Capt. Philip Conine's Co. of Col. Peter Gansevort's 3rd Reg. N. Y. line, and later in the same year, to the close of the war, he was in Col. Marinns Willetts regiment of the Levies.

The census of 1790 states that Gideon Burdick resided at Easton, Albany Co., now Washington Co. N. Y. and had 4 in his family - 1 male over 16,

1 under 16 and 2 females. The "Holland Purchase A History of Western New York" mentions that Gideon Burdick was in 1804 one of the patenties at Irving, Chautauqua Co., (now Middlebury, Wyoming Co., his lot being in T10 R.I. On Oct. 12, 1832 when 70 years old and residing in Busti, Chautauqua Co., N. Y. he applied for a pension for his military services during the revolution and his claim was allowed Oct. 21, 1833. His name is on the "United States Pension List for 1833-4 (23rd Congress 1835) and his residence is given as Chautauqua Co. His last payment was ($40 annually) made Sept. 4, 1845. He was then living at Kirtland, Lake Co., Ohio. where he had moved in 1838 from New York State.

Gideon Burdick was a Latter day Saint. He resembled Ethan Allen in personal appearance. He always spent the anniversary of the birth of his first child , Feb. 7, in fasting and prayer in the woods in fulfilment of a vow made for the deliverance of his wife. He was of a very kindly disposition. It is related of him that a bird started to build its nest in the sleeve of his coat while he was working in the field. When he discovered the fact he left his coat hanging where he left it until she raised her young.

Walter Burdick while a resident of Charlestown, enlisted in Capt.
Stantons company, Col. Frys Rhode Island Regiment. When the British landed at Warren, R. I. May 25, 1778, Walter Burdick and six others attacked and rounted a detachment of red coats, but Burdick was dangerously wounded by a gunshot wound in the left hip and did not recover therefrom until late in the following August. The Rhode Island Assembly paid him for the attendant expenses and on March 29, 1824 while residing in Ellington, Conn., he was placed on the U. S. Pension list. The R. I. Colonial Records (Vol. 8, p. 463) contains the petition of Walter Burdick to the R. I. Assembly for reimbursement for expenses incurred on account of injury at Warren. According to the "Military

During the war of the Revolution, Hazard Burdick enlisted at Westerly, R.I. in 1776, when 12 years old, as private in Capt Thomas Thompsons Co., Col. Bartons Regiment, R.I. Troops, in which he served fifteen months. In 1778 he served six months in Capt. Pembertons Co., of Col. Babcocks Regiment, and in 1780 six months in Capt. Peckhams Co.

Aug. 16, 1832, while a resident of Butternuts, N.Y. he applied for a pension for two years service in the Revolution.

He was a Free Will Baptist minister.

He and his wife were so large and heavy that when they drove in their two seated rig each occupied a whole seat.

In 1827 he was living at Norwich, N.Y. had had nine children all married and living within a days drive except Rowland and Luraney who lived 400 miles to the west.

Eight of the children had made a public profession of religion and all were farmers but Samuel.

Lorenzo lived with his parents and had two children.

Hamilton Burdick acquired an excellent reputation as a Lawyer. He was a Democrat in politics, and though not caring for public office, he was several terms supervisor of his ward. Bruce's "History of Onondaga Co., N. Y." contains an excellent likeness of him and his son Edward H. who was associated with him in the practice of law.

Paul Burdick went from N. Y. to Milwaukee in 1829 according to his grandson Christopher G. Burdick of Antigo, Wis.

Buck's History of Milwaukee says he arrived in 1835 and in the same year, at the first election was chosen one of the <sup>fence</sup> viewers. Mrs. Burdick was the fourth white woman in town, joining her husband there in July 1835. In 1836, and for many years after, they lived in the "Yellow House", the first dwelling erected in the town, and built by William Burdick.

He was one of the six pioneer settlers of Milwaukee. Accompanied by Deacon Samuel Brown and Horace Chase, he left Chicago Dec. 4, 1834, in a one horse wagon containing a tent and baggage, and reached the site of Milwaukee about Dec. 7. He located a claim where the present German market now stands, on the east side (S W 1/4 Sec. 21) . In 1835, he lived on the west side. He built the first house in Milwaukee, a one story frame dwelling, known as the "Yellow House" which was raised March 6, 1835, at the northwest corner of Second and Cherry St.

He ran on the Democratic ticket for inspector of schools in 1837.

In 1802, Henry Burdick, a native of Rhode Island, emigrated from Coleraine, Mass., and located on lot No. 72 (Scott). He purchased originally in the company with John Babcock, 10<sup>7</sup>/acres. He was an active and prominent pioneer in this locality and now (1858) at the venerable age of 78 years, lives retired from the toil and battle of life. His youngest son, A. B. Burdick of New York, is the enterprising publisher of this work. (From Goodwin's "History of Courtland Co., N. Y.")

He received a common school education in Westerly and learned the shoemaker's trade, and became a successful manufacturer, but about 1840 he sold out his business and traveling and moved to Hamilton, N.Y., where he entered the theological seminary. He was ordained a Minister of the Baptist Church and to his work he was devoted at Fishkill, N.Y., and Danbury, Conn. In July, 1843 he accepted a call to Danbury, Conn. In January 1847 he became pastor of the church at Danbury, Conn., and in April, 1850, took charge of the church at Tiverton, N.Y., and during his three years pastorate was instrumental in building a church there. His last charge was at Danbury, N.Y., where he died.

Two years after his death his wife moved to Fall River where her family resided. She stayed three years and then went to Newport, and then the civil war broke out and she went to the front as a nurse, visiting her two year old son with her. On their return they resided at Newport.

Clarke Burdick was a farmer and a Baptist. His wife died at the home of Dea. Alfred Langworthy, where she was visiting. Her death was caused by apoplexy. She was a woman of a kindly spirit, a devoted mother and a strong friend. She died in the Christian faith, having been baptized many years ago by Rev. Horace Stillman. Funeral from the home of her son John Burdick, conducted by Rev. T. H. Root, pastor of the Wood River Congregational Church. Interment in the First Hopkinton Cemetery.

Elihu W. Burdick, b. 1861, May 15.

Charles Burdick was a farmer and a Baptist. His wife died at the home of her father, who was visiting. Her death was caused by apoplexy. She was a woman of a kindly spirit, a devoted mother and a strong friend. She died in the Christian faith, having been baptized many years ago by Rev. Horace William Burdick.
From the home of her son John Burdick, assisted by Rev. T. H. Wood, pastor of the Red River Baptist Church, Clinton. Interment in the First Baptist Cemetery.
